HOWE'S PRIZE MEDAL Sewing Machines!!

ELIAS HOWE, JR., THE ORIGINAL INVENTOR of the Sewing Machine, was awarded the

First Prize Medal

AT THE

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION,

recently held at London, over 250 kinds of Sewing Machines entered for competition from all parts of the world. These the greatest triumph of the age, and all who have an opportunity to ascertain their merits are satisfied that they are the most perfect in Mechanism and simplest in construction of any Machines yet produced; being easily understood, not at all liable to get out of repair and are very durable. They are adapted to all grades of work and make a perfect

THE OREGON FARMER

Class VII of the Premium list for the State Fair for 1865, presents a large list of articles for premium. This list is headed "DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES—and the articles named are from the field, the shop, the manufactory in a more enlarged sense, and are of the first necessity; and the raising of the raw material and the main feature of which should be in sufficiency to supply the extensive demands of our State and the adjoining territories. This country will never attain its highest prosperity, until it is, in a great measure self-sustaining. What benefit is it to us if our miners send all the gold they raise to other markets for food, clothing and other necessaries of life? The great and decided policy of our people should be by a course of domestic policy to retain among us, a good deal of gold, by the exchange, with the mining country, of our provisions, our cloths, our boots and shoes, our syrups, our hats, our manufactures of tin and iron. When this thing is effected, our lands will be valuable, our farmers will obtain the rewards of their industry, and our mechanics and manufacturers flourish. There was never a purely agricultural country that was rich. The "manufacturer should be placed beside the farmer" to secure the welfare of both. The small farmer of New England makes money, because the manufacturer is near to purchase his surplus. Had we a full supply of mechanics and manufacturers, they would furnish a market for much of the food and all the raw material for manufacture that would be produced in our valleys.

We call the attention of our farmers and manufacturers to the following Class, No. VII, of the list of articles for which premiums are offered by the State Agricultural Society:

Committee.—J. N. Gilbert, Salem, [illegible]; John Nation, Portland, Thos. [illegible]; Sanderson, [illegible], Linn county.

We hear that an enterprising mechanic has sent to San Francisco for the machinery necessary for the manufacture of brooms of every description, the manufactory to be established in Portland. We are of the opinion that good broom-corn can be grown in many parts of Oregon. The land for this article must be rich, quick, and well exposed to the rain. There are now several varieties of broom-corn—some with very long husk, as [illegible] shorter and one variety of very dwarfish growth. A manufacturer here should contract with farmers for crops of broom-corn, and should furnish them with seed—giving farmers a fair contract price. These contracts should be made before next spring—and we doubt not that in this way a full supply of the brush can be obtained. It would be almost disgraceful to our State for a manufacturer here to be compelled to buy his broom-corn brush in California.

Sorghum can be grown here, when corn can be raised with success. In the Western States sorghum has become a staple crop. From an acre of land the farmer is able to make 140 gallons of syrup. Here, if he would succeed in producing half that amount, it would be a most profitable crop. Under the expansion of the currency in the Western States, sorghum syrup is worth 52 cents per gallon—raw molasses no more.

The reader in examining the list above quoted, will see that all the articles named can be, and should be, manufactured and produced in our State—many of them already are. We wish to see specimens at our State Fair, as well to show what can be and has been done, as to open a market for them. What patriotic man will purchase foreign made soap or candles, or liquors, or matches, or saddles, or harness, when he can purchase a better article made at home? Merchants may for a time bring different articles from a distance to be sold in our markets; but when as good or better articles can be manufactured, and had here, they will turn their mercantile industry in another direction.

We would greatly enlarge our remarks on this subject had we the leisure. We know that no community can for any time flourish without domestic manufactures. It is the history of this country, that whenever a high tariff has existed, manufactures and agriculture flourished together. The one furnished the market for the other. The condition of our country requires now a high tariff. Manufactures are encouraged by the belief in a permanent protection, and men of means can now employ their capital in safe operations—receiving profit to themselves, markets to the farmer, and the general prosperity of the country.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR OF OHIO.—Gen. J. D. Cox has been nominated for Governor of Ohio over Gov. Brough. Gen. Cox is a young man of about 38 years, of great abilities and thorough education, has served in the Ohio Senate, where he ranked as a leader among the radicals, and has served from the commencement of the present war, first as a Colonel, then as a Brigadier, now as a Major General of Volunteers. His services in the army are well known. The Copperheads are in great trouble for a candidate against him. They want to run General Sherman, but he won't stand it.

THE LIBBY PRISON RECORDS SENT TO WASHINGTON.—The books used in the office of Libby Prison and containing the names, regiment, date of capture, etc., of every Federal officer and private that ever passed the doors of that prison, have been sent to Washington as the records of much that is valuable, historical and curious. The books have one recommendation—they have been well kept.

The whole number of Union prisoners confined in Libby Prison, from the outbreak of the war [illegible] close is estimated in round numbers at one hundred and twenty-five thousand. [illegible]

When Shall the Debt be Paid?

There [illegible] the [illegible] began the [illegible] that we [illegible] the principal just as [illegible] that the expense [illegible] brought with [illegible] years to come we ought [illegible] make no effort to [illegible] more than [illegible] pay the interest leaving the debt untouched [illegible] Some counsel the people to give up all idea of ever paying it and propose that it shall be funded just as the debt [illegible] and that we content ourselves with paying the interest with the understanding that the principal is never to be discharged [illegible] may [illegible] Our people can never be [illegible] the example of [illegible] unless such example is in conformity with [illegible] plan of [illegible] republican polity. We have a history of our own [illegible] and it is not at all [illegible] the example of other nations as a guide in all things for our people to follow. A large national debt we conceive to be incompatible with the prosperity of a nation, and whatever other peoples may think of the matter we of America consider a public debt a public burden

With this view we believe that a vast majority of the people wish the debt to be paid as early as practicable. Furthermore they are willing to make special efforts to get rid of this great load which, though the country can carry it with tolerable ease is a very different thing from a help to further prosperity. During the war, while the country was in its greatest danger, the only object the people had in view, was to preserve it from being permanently divided; now that the war is over and the greater perils are past, the leading idea with the people is to pay the debt which was necessarily incurred in defending the life of the nation

The last pamphlet on finance issued by Jay Cooke, is devoted to the purpose of showing that the debt ought not to be paid shortly, and that in fact, it would be bad policy to pay it all. The author begins by saying that we can easily pay the debt if we wish to, but adds that if it be a good, it ought to be perpetuated. He thus proceeds with the endeavor to show that the debt is a blessing, and that as a consequence it ought not to be discharged

Certainly, if the people could be convinced that the debt is a blessing, they would take good care that it should never be paid. We are informed that our debt of near three thousand millions, "is so much added to the realized wealth of the nation." This view differs somewhat both from that held by political economists, and from that dictated by common sense. The present debt was produced by our great war. Now, if this debt be a good, the war stopped too soon. We ought by all means, since our struggle at home is over, to force some foreign power into a war with us, so that the debt may be increased, and this "blessing" doubled. Indeed, we ought to use all our efforts to squander the public money in every known and unknown way, so that our national prosperity may be founded on a debt still more enormous than that which we now owe. By attacking some power beyond the sea, and carrying war into his country with all the forces of the United States, we should soon succeed in piling up the debt to double its present proportions, and this is what we had better do, if the reasoning in Jay Cooke's circular be correct

It has always been supposed that money expended in war was, economically considered, so much utterly lost. It has been thought that a withdrawal of able-bodied men from the pursuits of peace, and their conversion into soldiers, was a hindrance to the production of wealth. Men have been of the opinion that a country could be utterly impoverished by war. It has been held that the manufacture of arms, the maintenance of troops, and all the expenses incident to war, was an absolute loss to any government. But if a portion of the reasoning in the pamphlet we are [illegible]ing of be correct, these ideas are erroneous. The way to national prosperity has been found at last. The secret is: Build up a great national debt. Then as the New York Tribune pithily says "The greater the debt the greater the blessing."

The author of this pamphlet is one of those who do not want to be put to any special effort to pay the debt, and who prefer to carry the burden the rest of their lives, and then let it fall upon their [illegible]dents, rather than do anything to get rid of it at once. Hence the attempt to fortify an untenable position by arguments so very awkward as to carry with them their own confutation. The truth is, we can easily pay the debt in twenty years, and we shall act an unwise part if we do not bestir ourselves to do so. The interest on the debt is now about one hundred and sixty millions a year. We do not want to be subject to this great tax forever. The Union is worth all it has cost to preserve it, and the people will show their appreciation of its value, by paying their public debt just as soon as it can be done

THE MAILS OVERLAND.—The Austin Reveille of July 29th has the following which discloses the manner in which the Overland Mail is managed this summer. The Indians are the prime cause of these irregularities, but it is certain that if the troops now on the plains were managed as they should be, these disturbances would be brought to an end. As things now are the overland mail had just as well stop as to be carried in the manner in which the business at present is done. The Reveille says:

> Through the attention of [illegible] M. Marshall, who has just arrived in town from [illegible] journey across the Plains, we have been put in possession of some facts [illegible] the detention of the mails on the [illegible] route that will prove interesting to our readers. The [illegible] gap in the mail route, which was [illegible] by the depredations of Indians, [illegible] an area of over two hundred miles, and commences at a point about one hundred miles west of Denver, and stretches thence along [illegible] hundred miles to Sulphur Springs, which is three hundred miles east of Salt Lake. Mail matter has been accumulating at Denver until it has reached the enormous amount of twenty-five or thirty stage loads, and still the work of accumulation is allowed to [illegible] unchecked [illegible] the Post Office Department, which [illegible] should have been applied by its agents of the existing condition of things. It would appear from Mr. Marshall's statement that the military officers at Denver, prompted by a sense of duty and [illegible] discretion, have taken steps to forward this mail from Denver to Sulphur Springs, from which point [illegible] today [illegible] to carry it to Salt Lake. Two Government wagons, under an escort of fifty [illegible] soldiers, were [illegible] Sulphur Springs, and this was continued until the major portion of the accumulated mail has been taken from Denver. [illegible] make [illegible] Sulphur Springs and Salt Lake and [illegible] portion of the route [illegible] will pass through Austin [illegible] of sixty-five. The mail east from this point [illegible] Marshall informs us [illegible] further than Sulphur Springs, where it lies [illegible]. The first [illegible] of mail should arrive in town [illegible]

NAVAL [illegible]—Lieutenant Cushing, that was [illegible] his dashing intrepidity in the des[illegible] about one year and a half [illegible] to the command of the [illegible] We do not know his present rank, but think it is that of Commander.

The above is from a California paper. We do not know whether the statement is correct or not as we have not seen it elsewhere, but we do know that Cushing is worthy to command any ship of which [illegible] His feat in the destruction of the rebel ram [illegible] was the most daring [illegible] ever performed. It surpasses even that of Decatur, when he burned the Philadelphia under the guns of the batteries in the harbor of Tripoli. Cushing is worthy to have stood on the [illegible] of the [illegible] by the side of the intrepid Paul Jones

[DISPATCHES TO THE [illegible]]

DATES TO JULY 13

SALT LAKE, August 8th.—The following items are from the Denver paper of July 2[illegible].

The Negroes in South Carolina

New York, July 13th.—The Herald's Charleston correspondent [illegible] says the white people of the [illegible] at Charleston [illegible] the [illegible] greatly [illegible] of the [illegible] that the [illegible] to the number of [illegible] and [illegible] a [illegible] in rebellion [illegible] the [illegible] a [illegible] of the city [illegible] It was [illegible] were sent to different parts of the [illegible]

The health of Charleston is said to be excellent except among the negroes, who are dying off in large numbers.

Free Labor in South Carolina—Things at Charleston

New York, July 13th.—The Herald's Charleston correspondent says the majority of South Carolina planters, though so recently [illegible] advocates of slavery, already begin to look [illegible] and [illegible] that compensated labor [illegible] far more profitable and satisfactory [illegible] the State generally. All the [illegible] South Carolina crops on [illegible] rice are represented as yielding abundantly this year. Rice cultivation is much neglected owing to the disorganization consequent upon the change from slave to the free labor system.

There is considerable ill feeling in Charleston between the soldiers and citizens. There have recently been some breaches of the peace in which the colored people of the city as well as those [illegible] have been mixed up. Gen. Bennett, the Post Commander, consequently found it necessary to issue special orders of a pretty stringent character, requiring all citizens to deliver up the fire arms in their possession, [illegible] restrain them from assembling in the streets, and causing them to remain in their homes after 9 o'clock in the evening. The soldiers are also reminded of their duties and warned against the perpetration of any outrages or any exhibition of discourtesy to the people.

Fire in New York—Barnum's Museum

New York, July 13.—A fire broke out in Barnum's Museum at a quarter to ten o'clock to-day, and by a quarter to one the entire interior was consumed. It is thought the fire will not extend beyond the building adjoining the museum on Broadway and two or three in the rear, leaving that portion of the block fronting on Nassau street including the Herald office, untouched. Owing to the rapid progress of the fire at Barnum's Museum to-day very little has been saved. The snakes and wild animals are all burned. Some general articles were brought out and lost in the crowd. The policemen saved a valuable case of coins and the glass engine. A large number of thieves, during the excitement, have been busy plundering hat stores and boot and shoe stores in the vicinity of the museum, and are selling their stolen property in the crowd. Pickpockets are now very active and many arrests have been made. A panic occurred in the crowd in consequence of the escaping of the steam from fire engines. Several persons were injured by being trampled under foot. One of the attaches of the museum went to the roof of the building where the fire first broke out and has not been seen since. The City Hall, Park and all the streets in the vicinity were filled with dense crowds. The walls of the Astor House became very hot, but by drenching the windows thoroughly the building was saved from the fire. The Evening Express office took fire twice on the roof, but no serious damage was done. Some water was thrown into the Herald building. The Belmont Hotel was thoroughly drenched. The old fire department was out in strong force, and engines came from Brooklyn to assist.

The Commercial says: The proprietor and employes of the Museum are thoroughly convinced that the fire was the work of an incendiary. The fire was first discovered in the basement and on immediately running to the roof to turn on the water from a large tank, the flames burst out on the second floor and on the third floor, near the stage of the Lecture Room, and the top floor. The Treasurer, Mr Fanny, who had gone to the roof to turn on the water found his exit cut off and was obliged to descend from the upper window by jumping to the balcony below, returning to his office he took from his safe fifty thousand dollars in government bonds and left the building. The manager had lately received an anonymous letter containing threats to burn the building on account of, it is supposed, playing Jeff Davis in petticoats. Among the works of art saved yesterday was the Greek Slave, also twenty four gigantic pictures illustrating Washington and his battles, painted by John McNeven, which were soon to be exhibited as a panorama. Fortunately they had not been taken to the building, but stood elsewhere. The American Giantess had a narrow escape. She was found at the bend of the stairs in a swooning condition from the smoke and was with much difficulty assisted from the building.

The wax figure of Jeff Davis was carried out, but just as the street was reached its head dropped off. It was afterwards found suspended to a lamp post. A soldier was forced to jump from a second story window. He says he had in his company James Burnes, of Lancaster, Pa., a member of the One Hundred and Sixty Ninth New York Regiment and it is feared he perished. The monster bear was lowered from an upper window on a ladder by a chain attached to his neck. He was very docile. The learned seal was also got out against the rough treatment he received.

Barnum, who was at Bridgeport, telegraphed to have his agent ready to sail for Europe on Saturday to get curiosities for a new museum.

The Emperor Disowns "Duke" Gwin.

New York, July 13.—The Times' Mexican correspondent says the Imperial Government has announced that it never entered into any negotiation with Dr. Gwin, and never contemplated making him duke, governor nor viceroy.

GREAT POPULAR LOAN

Of the People!

Less than $[illegible] of the Loan authorized by the last Congress, are now on the market.

This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within four months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the Loan, the National Banks, State Banks and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

TRIAL OF THE DREDGING MACHINE.—The Dredging Machine was taken across the river yesterday morning for the purpose of testing her actual [illegible]. The machinery throughout works admirably. The [illegible] gearing, etc. are [illegible] the best order, and being all home-made we have a right to speak well of it. The [illegible] part of the machine did not act just as will be necessary, but it is very seldom that any kind of new and heavy [illegible] works successfully from the start. [illegible] or two is a little more [illegible] operate to the full [illegible] did not dip properly, and in [illegible] accident occurred which [illegible] elevation of the dipper [illegible] run again, and the damage [illegible] that the machinery of the [illegible] of the snags in the river [illegible] is less than three-fourths of [illegible] was moving away from the channel [illegible] tree, with heavy branches, nearly [illegible] the shell end, and about forty feet long. It was a very heavy pull, but [illegible] machinery. [illegible] a few rods above, and which has been an obstacle to the navigation of the river for several years, will be the next to test the strength of the derrick. We have no doubt as to the result. We are prepared to say, from what we observed yesterday of the operations of the machine, that the Dredger is a perfect success. We feel now that [illegible] than we did formerly, believing that every obstacle which interrupts the free navigation of this river for all ships that can cross the Columbia river bar [illegible] and will be removed by this machine. [illegible] will have to acquire a knowledge of operating the Dredger by experiment, but we consider [illegible] easily acquired, and that no very [illegible] necessary on the part of any one to do the work.

THE OREGON IRON WORKS.—It will be seen [illegible] in the advertisement of the Oregon Iron Works that H. Bloomfield, Esq., mechanical engineer, late of Buffalo, has become a member of the firm of [illegible]. The following taken from a Buffalo paper [illegible] with interest, and shows that Mr. Bloomfield [illegible] in his profession: "The Buffalo Steam Engine Works have just turned out a monster steam hammer for the Government Railroad Works at Nashville, which is truly a magnificent piece of machinery. It was designed and built under the immediate supervision of H. Bloomfield, Esq., of this city, and is constructed upon the same principle as that applied to the monster steam hammer of the Niagara Steam Forge, which was also designed by Mr. Bloomfield. The weight of the hammer [illegible] 1,800 pounds, and when falling under pressure of steam its weight is estimated at two tons. The [illegible] block, which is the equivalent of the anvil, weighs [illegible] and this in turn rests upon a block weighing [illegible]. The whole machinery connected with this monster is very simple and can be managed by a boy [illegible] years of age. If one will picture to himself a good sized cylinder, attached to an upright frame moving upon slides on either side, and on a large piston rod in the centre, he may form an idea of its movement. The piston rod is hollow, and surrounds two smaller hollow rods which supply the steam to the interior of the hammer, to press it [illegible]ward or elevate it. The hammer in motion operates the steam valves, and regulates itself. It is to all [illegible] and purposes an inverted steam engine, the cylinder moving on the piston, the latter being the immovable [illegible] of the motive power. For heavy forging, it would be difficult to conceive of anything more powerful and so simple as Bloomfield's Steam Hammer."

WOOL.—We have samples of wool from three different [illegible] of this State, showing that the locality has something to do with producing the article. Wool from sheep east of the Cascade mountains ranks lowest in the market when graded, because of the alkaline properties of the grass on which the sheep feed, and the dust which settles upon them. The work of grading wool in this city has [illegible] the fact that no really good fleeces have been [illegible] from that section. The same sheep that produce a fine quality of merchantable wool in the Willamette valley, when taken east of the mountains produce a very [illegible] quality. We do not make this statement to the [illegible] of flocks in that region, as there may be places where the alkali does not exist; but, so far as received, the [illegible] is the same, and the grader has been obliged to throw it out from the best quality. The attention of [illegible] is called to the subject. They may have a good breed of sheep, and by experimenting may be able to produce a better quality of wool; but to contrast their [illegible] clips of 1865, with the common lots of this valley, they are not equal. The wool of this valley is of a high [illegible]. Six grades are made of it, and there is a large amount put up in fine order for shipment. The flocks are greatly improved; but there is still room for [illegible]. Picklocks (fine fancy clips) are scarce, and what in New York will rate as extra, we have but little of, yet there is an excellent quality of wool grown [illegible] in Oregon.

MOB LAW.—The [illegible] at Chinook are progressive. They evidently read the Territorial paper from east of the mountains, and go in for strangulation in redress of [illegible], and moral wrong. On Sunday last, we are [illegible] by Sheriff Stitzel, a man named Dickerson, who was formerly a carpenter and joiner in this city, killed a [illegible] Chief, in some melee, and in a few hours afterwards was hung by members of the tribe. Such occurrences are said to be quite frequent at Chinook. There is a gang of white men among the Indians who are looked upon much in the same character as outlaws, and there is no [illegible] near by to interfere with them, hence no [illegible] is given to these revels among them. We know nothing as to the character of Dickerson. The above is the [illegible] of his death. If he has friends they may likely press the matter to an investigation.

[illegible].—In the change at the Oregon Iron Works, Mr. John [illegible], who has been connected with the [illegible] since the organization of the company, retires from the firm. Mr. Nation has rendered efficient service in the [illegible] of new enterprises in this country during his time, when they required anything in the line of machinery, and as chief workman of the Oregon Iron Works, had the [illegible] of his patrons and the esteem of those in his employ. We are not advised as to the business in which Mr. Nation proposes to engage, but wish him [illegible] in whatever he may undertake.

[illegible] TRIP.—The steamer Cascade arrived at her dock in this city from the Cascades yesterday, at 35 minutes past [illegible] o'clock, P. M., having made the round trip from this city in less than ten hours. This is about the best time that has ever been made by a steamboat on our [illegible]. The wind was against the steamer in descending the [illegible], but was in her favor ascending the Willamette. The [illegible] is 150 miles, including stoppages [illegible] being long enough to discharge the [illegible].

[illegible] is seldom a time when a steamer [illegible] wharf in this city, without there being [illegible] drays, trucks, etc., in waiting to [illegible] and freight. Yesterday, for the first time [illegible], there were no vehicles of the kind [illegible] the arrival of the Cascades steamer, and but [illegible] present to see her make the landing. The [illegible] wagons were best for once. It [illegible] however, until they appeared.

[illegible].—Sheriff Stitzel called on us last evening [illegible] several pounds avoirdupois better than we [illegible] having seen him look before. He has just [illegible] from Clatsop which accounts for the change [illegible] Portland people are now enjoying life at the [illegible]. The Sheriff speaks highly of Dan. Lowell, [illegible] keeps a capital house, if it isn't the center of the [illegible]; and that he can accommodate the [illegible] fish, game, and fun are abundant.

ON THE SIDE-WALK.—C. H. Calef, Esq., paid a fine of [illegible] for riding on the side-walk, on examination before [illegible] A. Hoffman yesterday. He had avoided the [illegible] portion of Front street. When the work on this street is completed, by rolling down the stone [illegible], we shall hear less of persons attempting to avoid riding over it. The street is not finished, and looks [illegible] for horses' feet.

BLASTING.—The President of the People's Transportation Company, gives notice this morning that sealed proposals will be received at Oregon City, until 12 o'clock on [illegible] day the 15th inst., for blasting and clearing out the rock between that place and Canemah, preparatory to the constructing of the basin which is to connect their line of [illegible] above and below the falls of the Willamette.

THE TURN VEREIN.—At a meeting of the Portland Turn Verein, held at their hall on the 7th inst., the following officers were elected for the new term, viz: Leopold Wolff, Pt.; [illegible] S. Frohman, Secretary; L. Waterman, Treasurer; K. H. Seligman, 1st Turner; S. Waterman, 2d Turner; S. Moritz, Warden.

THE CIRCUS.—A good audience, both as to dollars and respectability, greeted the first performance of Lee & Ryland's Circus Troupe, in this city last evening. The [illegible] performs well, and less than half they do is worth more than the price of admission, to those who are fond of [illegible].

BENEFIT TO COLUMBIAN ENGINE COMPANY.—The circus troupe, now performing in this city, have proffered a benefit to Columbian Engine Company, to be given on Thursday evening. The firemen are entitled to a crowded house on that [illegible], and the circus company are deserving of liberal patronage on all occasions.

LOST.—The finder of a small steel-clasped, wire portmonnie, containing a five dollar gold piece and three pieces of silver, supposed to have been lost at the corner of Yamhill and First streets, on Monday last, will confer a favor on the lady owning the same by leaving it at this office.

RECORDER'S COURT.—In Recorder's Court yesterday, Ho Kang paid $10 and costs, for having been engaged in a row on Washington street. He is a Celestial. His antagonist, Francis Allen, was also fined $10 and costs. Levi Rogers was found [illegible] and paid a fine of $5 and costs. A number of cases for violation of Sunday law have been disposed of lately.

FROM CAPE DISAPPOINTMENT.—The sloop Harvest Queen was loaded at the Taylor street wharf from Cape Disappointment yesterday. She is making regular and quick trips, carrying building materials, etc., for the Government works at the mouth of the Columbia.

ANOTHER LEVEE.—The workers on the Nicolson pavement held another levee yesterday. Last evening a cross walk was finished, and the method of [illegible] the crossing of a street was laid out.

THE BOAT.—The light-draught steamer Echo, Captain Bell, leaves on regular trips between Salem and Canemah twice a week. The time is given in our advertising column.

COLLINS AND HIS FAMILY.—Mr. W. C. Myer, of Ashland Mills, expects to exhibit Colberg and his family of colts at the State Fair. The owner presents his challenge to horsemen on the road in another column.

LEE & RYLAND'S BAND.—A six horse team, conveying the band of Lee & Ryland's circus, paraded the streets of the city yesterday discoursing excellent music to the citizens.

The War on the River Plate—Its Origin.

[illegible] of the New York Herald.

[illegible] Argentine steamers [illegible], attacked them. The Paraguayan steamer [illegible] was [illegible], and in passing [illegible] Argentine war steamer Veinte y Cinco de Mayo [illegible] the men to make fast. The Paraguayans [illegible] and took the Veinte y Cinco de Mayo, after a [illegible] fight in which [illegible] and the Veinte y Cinco de Mayo [illegible]. The Paraguayans then proceeded to the [illegible] another Argentine war steamer, which was near by at anchor, undergoing repairs and [illegible] opened upon her with musketry, grape and canister [illegible] was soon obliged to surrender. After [illegible] of Corrientes, the Paraguayan fleet took the [illegible] vessels in tow and proceeded up the river.

There has been for a long time a treaty with Paraguay which was binding at the time of this invasion, and which required that both Paraguay and the Argentine Republic should give six months notice of intention to declare war. But no notice was given, and it was even declared [illegible] Paraguay does [illegible] of [illegible] would not apply to the [illegible]. At the same time a treacherous attack was made on the navy, and an army was marched into the province of Corrientes.

The news of these events reached Buenos Ayres at [illegible] o'clock P. M. on Sunday, April [illegible], at 5 o'clock P. M. the Cabinet met and at [illegible] resolved on war, and at [illegible] half past [illegible] P. M. a proclamation was issued declaring war against Paraguay. [illegible] gathered in the principal public square and several thousand visited the President, who made a brief and enthusiastic speech. The crowd then visited several of the Ministers and Consuls, and quietly dispersed.

Later accounts state that on April 14th the Paraguayan [illegible] returned to the front of the city of Corrientes, and that 3,000 infantry, with 2,000 dismounted [illegible], had taken possession of the city without opposition. [illegible] and [illegible] were [illegible] and quietly [illegible]. [illegible] seeing the attack [illegible] Laguna, with [illegible] and military [illegible] Empedrado, and that place being menaced [illegible] afterwards [illegible] to San Roque. [illegible] had been [illegible] of Corrientes [illegible].

So far as the Paraguayans have taken towns they [illegible] life and property. [illegible] in advance [illegible] But in the progress of the army [illegible] they may [illegible].

The declaration of war against the Argentine Republic quickly follows the war between Paraguay and Brazil. President Mitre had allowed the Brazilians to use the Parana [illegible] with their fleet to invade Paraguay, and had refused to allow the Paraguayans to cross the Argentine territory to invade Brazil. This unites the two countries against Paraguay. Uruguay being justly indebted to Brazil for its present peace and position, has also joined in the movement, and called [illegible] of the National Guard to make a third national army to act in concert against Paraguay.

The most active preparations have been made by the three allied governments to send up a combined force to overpower Paraguay. Brazil has sent up 12 gunboats with 8,000 men, and has [illegible] vessels at [illegible] with about 12,000 men. Uruguay is expected to send about 6,000 men [illegible]. The Argentine Government has called out all its National Guard and has already issued marching orders to all the troops [illegible]. The most vigorous efforts are being made to promote [illegible] enlistments and liberal inducements are offered to volunteers.

It is reported to-day that Senor Don Norberto Rivera is about visiting Europe to effect a national loan, [illegible] the dailies state that Brazil is to lend the Argentine Government seventy thousand hard dollars monthly to defray the preparatory expenses. The last news from Europe was quite unfavorable to the prospect of a loan, as Argentine bonds were lower than they had been for years [illegible]. The London and River Plate Bank stock had fallen from £15 premium to [illegible]. The uncertainty attending the affairs of Uruguay, assaulted as it was by a foe within and another still more powerful without, had created a feeling of distrust in all South American matters.

It is a fortunate thing for these countries that the last revolution in Uruguay left all the countries bordering on the river Plata in friendly alliance. The party in power in the Argentine republic, has gained an ascendancy in every province, and it has also gained its object in the success of the rebel General Flores, who is now the unquestioned President of the revolutionized Government of Uruguay. These events have also drawn both countries closer to Brazil. And as far as I know there is not even a minority in any of these averse to their warlike [illegible] against Paraguay. It is a foreign war. It unites all the citizens, and it gratifies a grudge that years have matured against a most selfish and isolated country. So firmly united are these three countries, so free are they from fear of complications or any bad results, that the currency has fluctuated but very little. Gold has changed value so far about five per cent., a very small fluctuation under the circumstances.

Thus far there have been no comparisons of metal in deadly strife. The whole world will await this with great interest, for Paraguay has never yet sent men into an evenly contested field, while many regiments already under marching orders have been tried, and will stand fire well.

TO NEUTRALIZE OFFENSIVENESS.—In many forms we use disinfecting agents. Impure breath, caused by bad teeth, tobacco, spirits or catarrh, is neutralized by Sozodont. It's a beautiful beautifier, and a great luxury as a dentifrice. The repulsive breath is by its use rendered as fragrant as a rose, and coldness by friends or lovers will be no longer noticed.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

HAS BEEN USED FOR NEARLY

HALF A CENTURY,

WITH THE MOST ASTONISHING SUCCESS IN CURING

Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Croup, Liver Complaint, Bronchitis, Difficulty of Breathing, Asthma, and every affection of the

THROAT, LUNGS, AND CHEST,

INCLUDING EVEN

CONSUMPTION.

There is scarcely one individual in the community who wholly escapes, during a season, from some one, however slightly developed, of the above symptoms—a neglect of which might lead to the last named, and most to be dreaded disease in the whole catalogue. The power of "medicinal gum" of the Wild Cherry Tree over this class of complaints is well known; so great is the good it has performed, and so great the popularity it has acquired.

In this preparation, besides the virtues of the Cherry, there are commingled with it other ingredients of like value, thus increasing its value ten fold, and forming a Remedy whose power to soothe, to heal, to relieve, and to cure disease, exists in no other medicine yet discovered.

The unequalled success that has attended the application of this medicine in all cases of

has induced many physicians of high standing to employ it in their practice, some of whom advise us of the fact under their own signatures. We have space only for the names of a few of these:—

S. H. FINLEY, M. D., San Francisco, Cal.
E. BOYDEN, M. D., Exeter, Me.
ALEXANDER HATCH, M. D., China, Me.
R. FELLOWS, M. D., Hill, N. H.
W. H. WEBB, M. D., Cape Vincent, N. Y.
W. B. LYNCH, M. D., Auburn, N. Y.
ABRAHAM SKILLMAN, M. D., Boundbrook, N. J.
H. D. MARTIN, M. D., [illegible]field, Pa.

The proprietors have letters from all classes of our fellow citizens, from the halls of Congress to the humblest cottage, and even from beyond the seas; for the fame and virtue of WISTAR'S BALSAM have extended to the uttermost bounds of the earth, [illegible] at any [illegible] part to introduce it beyond the [illegible] of our own [illegible].

TO CALIFORNIANS AND OREGONIANS.

Max Dolfin's Search

Max Dolfin was [illegible] only [illegible] gentleman [illegible] ber husband [illegible] life partly in P[illegible] partly [illegible] family [illegible] her, [illegible] Max was given to her for [illegible]

I have always [illegible] that the Dolfins were pleased [illegible] There was a splendid [illegible] and they had [illegible] gloomy [illegible] repair, with glo[illegible] plate [illegible] was nevertheless [illegible] the wants and the promise that [illegible] guarded with [illegible] receive his mother's fortune could hardly have been an [illegible] Still the [illegible] letters [illegible] ment and [illegible] despair [illegible] appropriate [illegible] when Max finally departed with [illegible] William [illegible] purpose [illegible] That there was some genuine [illegible] can really [illegible] I cannot believe that there was [illegible] Max was a child to win love and to keep it. Everybody yielded to his dark pleading eyes almost before his wishes were syllabled by his fresh lips, each varying thought and mood gave token of his presence in his changeful cheek, his little to [illegible] its most impatient tread fill [illegible] perfect grace and [illegible] every kindling feature through each caressing movement, through every word and deed [illegible] frank and generous nature [illegible] mistakably revealed.

I was delighted, as I might well be, when Max reached us for I had neither brother nor sister and he with his [illegible] strength and [illegible] tenderness supp[illegible] the place [illegible] We were educated much alike having the same tutor and the same [illegible] I was never jealous of Max [illegible] he attained a kind [illegible] me He learned at a glance what I acquired only by close and patient study He had a fine feeling for language, and his translations from foreign tongues were singularly felicitous If a theme were given us I made my plan and elaborated it with effort, while he summoned a few telling phrases made a happy allusion or a pertinent comparison, and the sparkling paragraph was completed Even his chirography excelled mine, it was so clear, so regular so finished In drawing I labored while Max wrought A few sharp, firm strokes, quickly given, and the rustic bridge the mossy mill wheel the ruined abbey or whatever picturesque fragment he had chosen for imitation, stood out boldly before the eye In music it was the same I reproduced the thoughts of others, while he expressed his own in ringing tones or sweet, vanishing cadences If I sought a favor, I must either earn it, or show conclusively why it should be granted but Max, with his eloquent face and winning ways, did but indicate his desire, and it was already granted Under less favorable circumstances, this inferiority would have affected unfavorably our moral and affectional natures, but our tutor constantly endeavored to make me content with my slow progress, while he as constantly strove to awaken Max to the necessity of more severe self discipline and a more thorough culture Max too had not a spark of vanity and while he rejoiced, as was natural, in his own gifts he appeared utterly unconscious that mine were less brilliant Far from enthroning himself upon his advantages, he in a measure demanded for me the attentions offered to himself, and our acquaintances soon learned that the most direct and certain road to Max's favor was through my own humble person

Grown into youth, we continued the truest of confidants I consulted Max about my dress to the vast improvement of my wardrobe I took his advice upon the hundred and one points which puzzled and embarrassed me at my entrance into general society, and I told him about my beaux, until—but no matter when my trust in that direction ceased In return Max told me about his comrades, his bills and his flirtations, and had we been genuine lovers which we were not, we could not have opened our hearts more entirely to each other.

Max never bored me except upon one subject, and that was the future Madame Dolfin. When he began to speak of her, I knew precisely what he would say, and almost the very words which he would use I know that though the lady might not be handsome, she must possess every imaginable perfection of character and education, that she must read the Greek and Latin authors in the originals, that she must speak French with the purity of a Parisian, and Italian with the sweetness of a poet, and that she must possess a wonderful voice, which when it swelled into song or died away in prolonged, delicious cadences should kindle or melt the heart of the listener at her will The harp and piano must yield their choicest secrets at her touch, arousing, enchaining, commanding, carrying away captive all within reach of their strains Then, though she must not dabble in color, she must have absolute command of the pencil that she might sketch, with clear and rapid outlines, scenery, portraits all things which elude the trammels of language while they give themselves to the more subtle and delicate invocations of the artist. With this genius and these acquisitions, she must be home-loving and home-keeping, an unfrequent guest, but a gracious hostess, a tender wife, a wise mother and a judicious mistress At first, I reasoned with Max upon his absurd requirements then I laughed at him, finally I advised him to seek this paragon in foreign countries, since America had not as yet given her birth "I will," he answered, and he went

Max sailed for Europe on my eighteenth birthday, and his absence made a great change in my life. I knew that alone I should never reign in society, and that all my successes thus far had been attained through him I was naturally reticent, and my education had increased rather than diminished my reserve The presence of strangers unnerved instead of inspiring me—checked instead of stimulating the flow of thought and expression—made my hand tremulous on strings and keys [illegible] mellowness and richness I liked to be petted and caressed on Max's account to shine in his light to reflect his splendor, but I was not ambitious of social honors of my own winning, even if they were within my grasp and I gradually withdrew into my own family circle and was seldom tempted beyond its bound When Max had been absent a year I married a man of tastes and habits akin to my own and left my husband and I had [illegible] our [illegible] and trees in a quiet country village I smiled to think how [illegible] lead to be

For Max was very [illegible] in Europe where his name [illegible] handsome person [illegible] his versatility of talent [illegible] made him a favorite As for his ideal she fled as he advanced [illegible] and only revealed herself in tantalizing glimpses [illegible] In merry England [illegible] the heather hills of Scotland in the dingles [illegible] of the magnificent woods [illegible] he caught the flutter of her [illegible] garments Among the mountains of Scandinavia [illegible] In the [illegible] she was [illegible] the Neckar [illegible] of Rome He heard her footfall in the [illegible] in Picardy [illegible] those dissolving views which grow [illegible] melt into each other her lineaments [illegible] they began to grow familiar

Max [illegible] for five years and then [illegible] Although he and I had been constant [illegible] columns series [illegible]

[illegible] Library [illegible] Heartily [illegible] wife. [illegible] I am [illegible] in all [illegible] could not [illegible] But he [illegible] Mr. [illegible] attended [illegible] him [illegible]

The [illegible] Autumn [illegible] Virginia creeper flaunted [illegible] sumachs were arrayed [illegible] drapery [illegible] the Birch The golden finches and the blue jays were screaming and [illegible] chestnuts the first [illegible] bure. Winter [illegible] but as yet the weather was warm and [illegible] game was abundant and [illegible] to learn [illegible] I replied [illegible]

[illegible] and Max quietly I shall return [illegible] spend the Winter at Mr [illegible] but I promised [illegible] at [illegible] and Maggie will be glad [illegible]

[illegible] but wait and use your eyes [illegible]

I was [illegible] that Max [illegible] return at the end of [illegible] a magnificent [illegible] at which [illegible] of hill and valley meadow and upland [illegible] every side [illegible] was then in the [illegible] with [illegible] and the dozen fine [illegible] were [illegible] that was the [illegible] thoughtful [illegible]

[illegible] a few excellent pictures [illegible] admirable engravings [illegible] the best of magazines and many of the newspapers of the day a green house and an aviary, with a full attendance of respectful, well trained servants, were agreeable accessories to the place, the real magnates of which were Mrs. [illegible] and her daughter

To be sure neither of these ladies was accomplished in the ordinary meaning of that much abused term, but they were perfect specimens of fine true gentlewomen. Theirs was the best domestic culture. Neither knew any language except her own but its rarest treasures whether of poetry or prose of science or belle lettres were as familiar to them as their [illegible] song This was [illegible] and the fitting anecdote, the felicitous allusion the happy quotation and needed refinement were quietly [illegible] in the daily conversation. There was no [illegible] in the library, but either in their or daughter sang and played at morning and evening devotions when [illegible] and the large household knelt with at least an outward show of feeling but they attempted nothing beyond these hymns unless it were a few snatches of songs and ballads in the sweet hours of the en[illegible] Neither sketched, but both had a thorough knowledge of and genuine love of art, both possessed singular analytic and descriptive powers and [illegible] force from words with a vivid [illegible] and fact their most vivid and subtlest meanings They were charming hostesses, preserving the [illegible] of the guest even while [illegible] to his comfort and pleasure. Both, also, were gentle and generous, but while Mrs. [illegible] was gravely cheerful, Maggie was full of humor filling the house with music of her laughter and making old and young share in her merriment. Without ostentation or bustle, Maggie lifted the burden of care from her invalid mother Although they employed a steward she held the real control of the estate, and in the busy season often spent half the day in the saddle She cared both for the physical and spiritual well being of the laborers, visited their families and superintended their school She could use her needle, with that prettiest implement of female industry and as the holidays approached her work basket was piled with gifts in preparation for the Christmas tree, warm woolen garments varied now and then by a pretty cap with trimmings of bright ribbons a smart collar, or a jaunty apron.

Perhaps, if Max had been in the first fervor of his search after his ideal, he might have been less attracted by this young girl so simple in her tastes, so generous in her thoughts so fresh and unhackneyed in her sentiments. But experience had destroyed his faith in the paragon which he had pursued so vainly, while time had taught him that the requirements of the man differ essentially from the dreams of the boy. So admiration glided into a most mute devotion.

The Allegany river wearied with its boisterous play, fell asleep under a jeweled canopy of winter's weaving; the hug[illegible] trees [illegible] their arms and bade defiance to the tempests, and the snow cry [illegible] to the roots [illegible] beneath the surface of the brown mold to keep them warm [illegible] spring time The happy Christmas passed, and the rest of the holidays as well [illegible] a long epistle bearing Max's signature, from which I copy these words "[illegible] sister mine, for I have won a bride [illegible] I have learned that perfection in a single department [illegible] I have [illegible] intellect [illegible] carved [illegible]

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough, St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St. Mary's, Camb Place, Pad.; Lock, Harrow road, St. Luke's, Old street; University, Gower street, Westminster, Broad Sanctuary, Charring Cross Agar street, Strand; London, Whitechapel road; Royal Free, Gray's Inn road; King's College, Portugal street

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parker of Birmingham, England, and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the high[illegible] in the treatment of Sexual Diseases

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their new mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of those horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz. Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances a disposition to shun society. Loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, night sweats, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected. By his new and [illegible] mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charges.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms and length of time the disease has continued, and have medicine promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use, [illegible] Ten Dollars sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
